To whom it may concern

This letter is regarding the work ethic and the amount of time and hard work Connor Hill has put into his high school career. Connor makes it very easy to separate himself from the regular student at Millennium Highschool, his enthusiasm and leadership skills in the classroom make him very fun to work with and always a joy to be around.

From having him as a freshman to now being a senior I have first hand experience of him mature and age to the person he is now. From coming in for extra help on a test, or just wanting to learn Connor has always been there. He always lightens up the classroom with his humor and kind heart to always make smiles in class.

To whatever he is placed in I am always going to be proud of what he's accomplished and am very proud. I truly believe that whatever he's going to do, he will do it with full heart and always give his 100 percent, and always continue his excellence.

Sincerely,
Brittney Mansfield
